

Gwyn Ashton – Feel The Heat (1993)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 14 September 2011 18:43 - Last Updated Wednesday, 03 February 2021 18:09

Gwyn Ashton – Feel The Heat (1993)

1. Too late 2. Loaded 6 shooter 3. Troubles knockin at your door 4. Just a little bit 5. We'll find a way play 6. Take me back home play 7. Ain't got time for that stuff 8. Wanted man 9. Bad luck blues 10. Wasting my time 11. Someone like you

Gwyn Ashton - Guitar, Harmonica, Mandolin, Producer, Vocals Geoff Brown - Bass Colin Mack - Harmonica Adam Quaife - Engineer, Mixing, Organ (Hammond), Producer Rick Tredrea - Drums, Percussion, Vocals (Background)

Gwyn Ashton was born in Wales and grew up in Adelaide, South Australia. His guitar playing was first inspired by musicians from the Australian scene, such as Chris Finnen, Kevin Borich and Ian Moss, along with favourites Chuck Berry, and Hank Marvin. In 1985, Gwyn moved to Sydney joining John Swan's band Swanee, and by 1986 he had teamed up with ex-Easybeats vocalist Stevie Wright and members of Jimmy Barnes's band. Malcom Young's nephew James played drums with Gwyn for a time and introduced him to Mal, who came to a few of Gwyn's gigs before resuming his tour dates with AC/DC. Gwyn spent most of the Eighties playing in almost every bar in Australia impressing many international musicians, including Mick Fleetwood, who sat in with Gwyn's band one late night in Adelaide.

Gwyn Ashton delivers a powerful yet bluesy Rock, with country and jazz influences. His guitar playing varies from the wild to the colourful or gentle, and offers a fantastic and diverse range of melodies. Each of his notes come alive with an uncommon touch, which mixes Blues techniques, sheer power and musical tradition from his country of origin.

Gwyn Ashton, 38, displays his experience in his debut album, "Feel the Heat". This guitar virtuoso is one of the most promising talents of the new "classic" Rock scene, succeeding Albert Lee, Jimmy Page and Rory Gallagher. His power trio has opened in Australia for Rory Gallagher, Junior Wells, Steve Morse and Albert Lee and in Europe for Buddy Guy, Peter

Gwyn Ashton – Feel The Heat (1993)

Written by bluesever

Wednesday, 14 September 2011 18:43 - Last Updated Wednesday, 03 February 2021 18:09

Green, and many others.

"Feel the Heat" showcases all aspects of Gwyn Ashton's talent: from hard-rocking tracks "Loaded 6 Shooter", "Ain't Got Time For That Stuff", "Wanted Man" and "Too Late", which are packed with energy, and are indicative of the band's powerful performances on stage, to slower blues songs such as "Someone Like You", which are steeped in the greatest of musical authenticity. Gwyn also shines on the acoustic numbers "Bad Luck Blues" and "Take Me Back Home", with soulful, emotion fuelled vocals.

Gwyn Ashton composed all songs on "Feel the Heat", which reveal his immense talent as a musician and songwriter. --- cdbaby.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett solidfiles

back