Richard's first solo CD, "Seventh Day: Acoustic Lap Steel Guitar", has aired on over 70 radio stations in Canada, the United States and Europe and has received critical acclaim here at home and overseas (see "The Reviews"). "Seventh Day" documents the evolution of traditional roots music from the 20th century into the 21st, all rather unconventionally adapted for the acoustic lap steel guitar. We hear the metamorphosis of gospel, country, and blues into early rock 'n' roll- all thematically underpinned by a handful of original songs. The CD highlights Richard's solo work, although, on a couple of tracks he does get a little help from his friends Suzie Vinnick and Carlos del Junco, both multiple Maple Blues Award winners. The result, while evocative of roots and folk traditions, is transformational: leading to a vibrant reconsideration of acoustic roots music. - richardhenderson.ca
