Lee Jackson (bass); J.B. Hutto (vocals, guitar); Johnny Young (guitar); Big Walter Horton (harmonica); Fred Below (drums).

1966 was a banner year for Hutto and his Hawks -- in addition to laying down the lion's share of his killer Delmark album, the slide master also waxed a similarly incendiary set for Pete Welding's Testament logo. Vicious versions of "Pet Cream Man," "Lulubelle's Here," and "Bluebird" are but a few of its charms, with Big Walter Horton's unmistakable harp winding through the proceedings. ---Bill Dahl, allmusic.com
