I graduated from Elon University with a Bachelor of Science degree in music production and recording arts in 2013. Over the past few years, I've spent my time learning through internships with composers like Henry Jackman and Michael A Levine, and working on projects that include documentaries, video games, films, trailers, and corporate videos.

I currently work as a freelance composer for visual and interactive media while also completing my own personal music projects. ---Philip G Anderson, linkedin.com
