Musicians: Giovanni Mirabassi - piano Andrzej Jagodziński - accordion Adam Cegielski - bass Czesław Bartkowski – drums

Though crazy as it may seem, this idea is perfectly sustained, not only at the level of musical expression but mostly at the level of a certain common creation: the beautiful romantic interpretations, very much acclaimed in the jazz movement, meet in a real jazz ecstasy, Giovanni Mirabassi, the Italian pianist virtuoso, as expressive as he is creative and whose popularity is triumphing today in France. This very unusual instrumental alliance does not obey any common jazz sonority. The music flows, profound as well as catchy, sensitive and striking... Polish and Parisian at the same time, it contains Italian melodic elements, a touch of French romanticism and – surprisingly- a lightness a noble character already present in « Jazz Chopin » by Jagodzinski... All this probably stems from Giovanni Mirabassi's compositions, perfectly conceived and magnificently interpreted... and whose Italian melodic line seems childishly simple but its rhythmical structure is in fact extremely complex. The beauty of this smooth music reminds us of the importance of melody... and the peace it can bring us in this world so often disturbed by troubling noises. This unequalled musical sensibility by Jagodzinski and Mirabassi let us hope for a new encounter between the two artists. Mirabassi's spontaneity brings a new energy in the trio Jagodzinski-Barthowski-Cegielski. A rare type of encounter between two
