Barbara Casini, (born 1954 in Florence) is an Italian vocalist and guitar player. A pianist, she heard Bossa Nova at the age of 15, which lent a distinct accent on her musical endeavours. A graduate in psychology from the University of Padova, she became a well-recognised vocal interpreter of Brazilian music and jazz in particular in Italy. She has since recorded and performed with Lee Konitz, Phil Woods, Leo Walls, Francisco Petreni, Stefano Bollani, Enrico Rava, amongst others and with her own group, Outro Lado. ---rte.ie

Renato Sellani was a pianist of the new generation with a fascinating style. His " touch ", indeed rare among jazz pianists, and his exquisite sensibility are the qualities which make him recognize the world over. He uses the piano with unique effect and the greatest american solists, from Chet Baker to Lars Gullin have enthusiastically played with him. ---ishtar.it
