Grammy-winner Andrew Synowiec has released his full-length album debut entitled Second Story. The entire project was recorded in six hours at Band House Studios in Hollywood, California.

The prolific musician and sought-after guitar "sideman" has contributed to over 25 Grammy-nominated recordings including his own 2015 Grammy Award win as a member of the L.A. big band Gordon Goodwin's Big Phat Band. Andrew has worked with A-Listers and whos-who of producers including David Foster, Bob Rock and Giorgio Moroder, most notably on his No. 1 hits with Britney Spears and Kylie Minogue.

When you are a sought-after guitarist and the legendary Steve Vai has positive things to say about a new project, that is high praise indeed. Here's what Steve Vai had to say to Andrew: "I really like the sound of this record. It has an analog feel and total group dynamic. Your tone is off-the-hook beautiful and the guitar is presented on a silver platter. I also love the daring nature of your melodies and solos. Amazing technique, feel, tone, note choice and phrasing. This is such an impressive sounding and performed record. Feels like you and the boys were actually having a lot of fun with it."

In a unique strategy, Synowiec's House of Syn Studio has released a single approximately every two weeks in anticipation of his album debut. On "One of a Kind," a soulful, bluesy ballad, Andrew's guitar performance soars as his band plays with passion and restraint. A true highlight of the song is a heartfelt organ solo by noted keyboardist Fred Kron.

"Second Story" features psychedelic overtones and dueling drummers that are a throw-back to the sounds of the '60s. Andrew adds, "It is Jimi Hendrix attitude married to Steely Dan harmonies."

On "Triad Days," Tim and Andrew push each other to new heights during their guitar duel while synchronous drummers Blair Sinta and Jake Reed echo the dueling guitars with an infectious give-and-take reminiscent of The Allman Brothers Band and The Grateful Dead. Fred Kron lays down an inspired solo on a vintage Rhodes electric piano supported by the ever-rock-solid Sean Hurley. Guitar legend Tim Pierce joins Andrew on the track captured live in a historic Hollywood studio. "Triad Days" brings together the best elements of '70s instrumental rock fused with hip-hop beats and modern harmony. On this track, a feeling of true musical dialogue exudes from the speakers as the listener is taken on a dynamic ride.

Synowiec's debut single "Albuquerque Blues" from Second Story (May 3) was released on Friday, Jan. 11, 2019. The positive reviews and reaction have come from all sides, including journalists and peers alike. Andrew says, "Albuquerque Blues' was written for Tim Pierce who is a legendary session guitarist and good friend. Being a session player myself, I rarely perform my own compositions. I wanted to write something that felt instantly familiar. This, 'Albuquerque Blues,' was my debut solo single and is taken from the album."

Never one to rest on his laurels, Andrew released the second single from the upcoming album on Jan. 25, 2019, entitled "Gift Horse." With a crisp double-drum attack on a 7/4 funk groove, on "Gift Horse," Sean Hurley lays down a super-solid foundation on his signature P-Bass. Fred Kron delivers a trippy Rhodes solo. Andrew's guitar solo channels equal parts Jeff Beck and Robben Ford while making good use of a psychedelic ring-modulator effect on the melody statement.

Not content to leave his "day job," the world's top film composers seek out Andrew. He's performed on the scores for Michael Giacchino, Chris Beck, Joe Trapanese, John Debney, Alexandre Desplat, Marco Beltrami and John Powell. He has numerous film and TV credits and has appeared on the corresponding soundtracks such as Disney's modern classic Frozen (including the infectious song "Let It Go"), The Greatest Showman, Coco, Spider-Man:
