I really look forward to the holiday season each year. The precious family time, the tightly wrapped presents, the glistening white snow – ok, no glistening white snow for me anymore, I'm in Florida now. And holiday time means holiday tunes, usually starting in about October these days. But if you're like me, you're just a little bit tired of hearing the same holiday jingles over and over again each year. Of course, there's something fun about the first time you hear "Winter Wonderland" and "The Christmas Song" coming through that department store's speakers. After all, who doesn't love the holidays? And by Thanksgiving, I'm already pulling out my copy of Jewel's first Christmas album – that can be our little secret, by the way. But you and me – deep down we're blues fans, and after a few weeks of the novelty of Christmas music starts to wear off like yesterday's aftershave, we're ready to get back to our musical roots. ---jbonamassa.com

Czy muzyka świąteczna w odcieniu bluesa może nas odpowiednio nastroić? Ależ oczywiście! Blues jest dobry na każdą okoliczność, a w takim wykonaniu i w takim brzmieniu muzyka świąteczna nabiera jeszcze większego smaczku i uroku.

Co na krążku? Siedem cudnych kompozycji i 27 minut tupania nóżką. Świąteczne teksty, bluesowe harmonie, piękne gitarowe zagrywki i świąteczne smaczki wplecione w utwory. Sprawne ucho wychwyci wszystkie znane fragmenty melodii, które od dziecka kojarzą nam się
