

Ozzy Osbourne – Greatest Hits (2009)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 27 December 2009 11:06 - Last Updated Sunday, 07 October 2018 22:58

Ozzy Osbourne – Greatest Hits (2009)

CD1:

01. I Don't Wanna Stop
02. Perry Mason
03. Can't Save You – Bonus Japanes
04. Dreamer
05. Thunder Underground
06. Not Going Away
07. Mama, I'm Coming Home
08. I Just Want You
09. No Easy Way Out
10. No More Tears
11. Back on Earth
12. 21st Century Schizoid Man
13. Walk on Water
14. In My Life
15. I Don't Want to Change the World
16. I Don't Know [Live]
17. Paranoid [Live]

CD2:

01. Nightmare
02. Gets Me Through
03. See You on the Other Side
04. Mississippi Queen
05. Mr. Tinkertrain
06. Shot in the Dark
07. Breakin' All the Rules
08. Time After Time
09. Crazy Train
10. Bark at the Moon
11. Over the Mountain
12. Miracle Man
13. Mr. Crowley
14. Flying High Again

Ozzy Osbourne – Greatest Hits (2009)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 27 December 2009 11:06 - Last Updated Sunday, 07 October 2018 22:58

15. Crazy Babies

16. Diary of a Madman

Ozzy Osbourne, byname of John Michael Osbourne, (born December 3, 1948, Birmingham, England), British musician who gained a loyal following as the vocalist for the heavy metal group Black Sabbath before embarking on a successful solo career.

Raised in a working-class family, Osbourne dropped out of school at age 15 and held several low-paying jobs. He also engaged in petty crime and at 17 was imprisoned for two months for burglary. After his release, he sang in a number of local rock groups, eventually forming the rock band Earth with guitarist Tony Iommi. To avoid confusion with another band of the same name, the group changed its name to Black Sabbath—after an old Boris Karloff movie. The group developed a grinding, ominous sound, based on the blues but intensely amplified, and drew attention with its tendency to reference the occult in its lyrics. In February 1970 Black Sabbath released its eponymous first album and quickly developed a following in both Britain and the United States.

The band released albums each year through the mid-1970s, except 1974. After the tour for Never Say Die (1978), Osbourne left the band. A period of despair and drug abuse led to Osbourne's divorce from his first wife, Thelma Mayfair. He then met and married Sharon Arden, who encouraged him to start a career as a solo artist. His first effort, achieved with the primary help of guitarist Randy Rhoads, was Blizzard of Ozz (1980). A multiplatinum success, thanks in part to the standout single "Crazy Train," it was followed by the equally popular Diary of a Madman (1981), which sold more than five million copies. A defining moment in Osbourne's career came on the tour for the album, when, thinking that someone in the audience had thrown him a rubber toy, Osbourne bit off the head of a live bat.

Osbourne found his first solo Top 40 hit with "Mama, I'm Coming Home" from the album No More Tears (1991), and in 1993 he won a Grammy Award for best metal performance for the song "I Don't Want to Change the World." Despite announcing his retirement in 1992, he continued recording through the decade. Ozzfest, an annual summer music festival featuring heavy metal acts organized by Osbourne and his wife, began in 1996 and toured throughout the United States and, in some years, parts of Europe. By the end of the 1990s, Osbourne had reunited the original members of Black Sabbath for a new album and tour, and in 1999 the band won a Grammy for best metal performance for the song "Iron Man." In 2013 Osbourne made his first studio record, 13, with Black Sabbath after a 35-year absence.

Ozzy Osbourne – Greatest Hits (2009)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 27 December 2009 11:06 - Last Updated Sunday, 07 October 2018 22:58

In 2001 the reality television show The Osbournes, which focused on the life of Osbourne and his family, premiered on MTV, and within two months it had become the third highest-rated offering on cable television. The hugely popular show ran until 2005. In March 2006 Osbourne and the members of Black Sabbath were inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. In 2007 he released his first solo studio album in six years, Black Rain, and he followed with Scream (2010). ---britannica.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto

back