

Nirvana – Local Anaesthetic (1971)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 21 June 2010 20:59 - Last Updated Thursday, 20 September 2018 08:59

---

Nirvana – Local Anaesthetic (1971)

01. Modus Operandi (Method Of Work) (Patrick Campbell-Lyons, Patrick Joseph Kelly) - 16:11

02. Home (Patrick Campbell-Lyons) - 19:11 including:

- a). Salutation
- b). Construction
- c). Destruction
- d). Reconstruction
- e). Fanfare

Personnel:

- Patrick Campbell-Lyons - vocals
- +
- Mel Collins (King Crimson) - saxophone
- Tony Duhig (Jade Warrior) - guitar
- Jon Field (Jade Warrior) - keyboards
- and others

For me this is maybe the most interesting album of the four first major releases done by this cute little band. But I admit I still don't see it as a really essential record. If compared to the carefully constructed pop songs from their late 60's releases, "Local Anaesthetic" has much more improvisational playing in it, and there are more jazz elements included in the sound. Keyboards are mainly represented by a piano, which makes the music's tone quite pleasant to my ears. Tony Duhig's presence can be heard in some passages which therefore sound very much like Jade Warrior, these elements being some African sounding drumming and wind sections. The first song (or collection of songs) is musically more compact, as the music flows continuously onward. The second side is thematically more united, but the tracks have clear pauses between them so I'm not sure it's right to claim it being a one compact song. Also I don't understand the meaning of few seconds of piano playing, where the whole album ends. There was also a one single being cut from this side, which's theme is focused in serious

Nirvana – Local Anaesthetic (1971)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 21 June 2010 20:59 - Last Updated Thursday, 20 September 2018 08:59

---

homesickness. Musically the album isn't still very tight or unique, though it's a fun record to listen through from time to time. I would recommend it for the serious fans of Jade Warrior and for those who are returning home from a long journey. ---Eetu Pellonpaa, progarchives.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett

back