Musicians:

- * Dominic Aitchison – bass guitar
- * Stuart Braithwaite – guitar
- * Martin Bulloch – drums
- * Barry Burns – guitar and keyboard
- * John Cummings – guitar

The band was birthed in the halcyon days of the mid-'90s and helped Glasgow become one of the real bright spots in the musical universe again. Not everyone gets Mogwai, but that's what makes them great. Theirs is a majestic, powerful sound where barely a word is spoken yet it is the antithesis of background music. Album and song titles bemuse, confuse and delight in equal measure and live, they are utterly unstoppable. Recorded at Chem 19 studios with producer Paul Savage (who recorded 1997's Mogwai Young Team), Hardcore Will Never Die, But You Will is the band's seventh album. It's a brave and instinctive album that is charged with an energy, spirit and intensity few can match. It is the sound of a band comfortable in their own skin, but clawing at the edges of their own capabilities, and drawing out something particularly special in the process.

'Hardcore Will Never Die, But You Will', was recorded over the summer at Chem 19 Studios, in Hamilton and mixed at The Castle Of Doom. 'Hardcore' is produced by Mogwai confidante Paul Savage (the man behind Mogwai's exceptional 1997 'Mogwai Young Team' album) and is the follow up to 2008's magnum opus 'The Hawk Is Howling'.
