

Pendragon – Passion (2011)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 18 April 2011 08:29 - Last Updated Friday, 26 October 2018 08:53

Pendragon – Passion (2011)

1. Passion play
2. Empathy
3. Feeding Frenzy
4. This Green And Pleasant Land
5. It's Just A Matter Of Not Getting Caught
6. Skara Brae
7. Your Black Heart

Musicians:

Nick Barrett - guitars, vocals

Peter Gee - bass

Clive Nolan - keyboards

Scott Higham - drums

Neo-prog band Pendragon formed in London during the heady days of punk, but didn't coalesce until 1983, when the band began playing around London and earned a small spot at that year's Reading Festival. The lineup stabilized, after the 1985 album Jewel, around vocalist/guitarist Nick Barrett, bassist Peter Gee, drummer Fudge Smith and keyboard player Clive Nolan. Pendragon recorded the live album 9:15 in 1986 and began to establish a continental fan base the following year. European audiences proved enthusiastic, spawning a contract with the French M.S.I. label; nevertheless, the group was forced to form its own Toff label just to release material in England.

Pendragon lay dormant through the rest of the '80s, but returned in 1991 with The Rest of Pendragon -- a reissue of the early Fly High, Fall Far with added B-sides -- and their first new album in five years, The World. The album earned a U.S. release in 1993, followed by The

Pendragon – Passion (2011)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 18 April 2011 08:29 - Last Updated Friday, 26 October 2018 08:53

Window of Life. A deal with the Japanese Pony Canyon label in 1994 resulted in the reissue of the entire back catalog, in addition to the new Fallen Dreams and Angels. The band made its U.S. debut a year later at L.A.'s Progfest, and released The Masquerade Overture early the following year. ---John Bush, allmusic.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett

back