Giulio Caccini – Le Nuove Musiche (1983)

Giulio Caccini – Le Nuove Musiche (1983)

1.Amor, ch'attendi 2.Amor, io parto 3.Tu ch' hai le penne, amore 4.Non ha'l ciel 5.Alme luci beate 6.Vedro'l mio sol 7.Dolcissimo sospiro 8.Dalla porta d'oriente 9.Amarilli mia bella play
10.Movetevi a pietà
play
11.Belle rose porporine 12.Queste lagrim'amare 13.Torna, deh torna 14.Con le luci d'un bel ciglio
Montserrat Figueras - vocal Hopkinson Smith - lute, baroque guitar Robert Clancy - baroque guitar, chitarrone Jordi Savall - viola da gamba Xenia Schindler – harp Schola Cantorum Basiliensis Giulio Caccini (1551-1618) was an Italian singer and composer. He composed mainly two types of songs: the strophic air and the through-composed madrigal.

He served the Medici court in Florence as music director from 1600.

In reaction to the polyphonic musical style of the Renaissance, he discussed his ideas for a new style of monody, accompanied solo song, in his Le nuove musiche (1602). The monodies in this publication contain expressive melodies accompanied by block chords rather than the traditional polyphony. He abhored excessive ornamentation in vocal lines, a practice singers had adopted during the Renaissance. His vocal lines were simple, syllabic with ornamentation only at appropriate moments. A fine example of this style of composition is his Ave maria.

He was a member of a group of musicians and poets known as the Florentine Camerata.

Giulio Caccini – Le Nuove Musiche (1983)

Wpisany przez bluesever
Sobota, 04 Luty 2012 13:05 - Zmieniony Piątek, 27 Wrzesień 2013 15:17

Members of this group created the first operas. In 1600 Caccini and Jacopo Peri both set the poem Euridice by Ottavio Rinuccini (1562-1621) to music. Caccini's score reflects the style of the madrigals and airs found in his Le nuove musiche.

download: uploaded   anonfiles   mega   4shared   mixturecloud   yandex   mediafire   solidfiles

back