

Dmitri Hvorostovsky – Verdi Arias (2002)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Czwartek, 22 Październik 2009 13:02 - Zmieniony Poniedziałek, 28 Październik 2013 19:50

Dmitri Hvorostovsky – Verdi Arias (2002)

01 Otello - Vanne... Credo In Un Dio Crudel 02 Rigoletto - Pari Siamo 03 Rigoletto - Cortigiani, Vil Razza Dannata 04 Stiffelio - Ei Fugge! Lina, Pensai Che Un Angelo 05 Nabucco - Son Pur Queste Mie Membra... Dio Di Giuda 06 Un Ballo In Macherà - Alla Vita Che T'arride 07 Un Ballo In Macherà - Alzati!... Eri Tu 08 Ernani - Gran' Dio!... Oh De' Verd'anni Miei 09 I Masnadieri - Vecchio Spiccai 10 I Masnadieri - Sogno Di Francesco 11 Il Masnadieri - Tutto E Deserto Dmitri Hvorostovski - baritone Philharmonia de Russie Mario Bernardi - conductor

Dmitri Hvorostovsky was "born to sing Verdi" (Opera magazine) and indeed the composer's operas are central to the great Russian baritone's remarkable career. He showcases his hallmark Verdi roles on this his second release for Delos.

The release of Verdi Arias comes hot on the heels of Hvorostovsky's appearances at the Metropolitan Opera as Posa in Don Carlo, one of three Verdi roles he took on during the 2001-2002 season and two of which are featured on this disc. His first Rigoletto in the West, at the Houston Grand Opera in October and November, was greeted with unanimous critical acclaim. "This is a Rigoletto gripping from start to finish," declared MusicalAmerica.com. "It is a new and brilliant view, and Hvorostovsky employs razor-sharp intellect to bring [the role] to life... He uses every nuance of his immense voice... he speaks with Olympian authority." April brought Hvorostovsky's first Il Trovatore at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden. Hvorostovsky possesses a rare blend of musical power and passion combined with acute musical intelligence. He has been praised world-wide for the success of his penetrating artistic explorations and the depth of his bold characterizations. He glides seamlessly between the often-conflicting emotions of Verdi's complex characters. One of Hvorostovsky's most notable and familiar roles is Francesco in I Masnadieri. On Verdi Arias, "Sogno di Francesco" portrays the character in a rare reflective mood, but Hvorostovsky has likened his demonic character to Iago, represented by the confessional "Credo in un Dio crudel" from Otello. Rage and revenge are heard from Stankar in "Lina, pensai ch'e un angelo; Oh gioia inesprimibile" from Stiffelio, innocence and fury from Renato in "Alla vita che t'arride" "Eri tu", from Un ballo in maschera. As

Dmitri Hvorostovsky – Verdi Arias (2002)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Czwartek, 22 Październik 2009 13:02 - Zmieniony Poniedziałek, 28 Październik 2013 19:50

King Carlo in Ernani Hvorostovsky delivers a somber and stirring "O de' verd'anni mie", as well as a desperate King Nebuchadnezzar in "Dio di Giuda!" from Verdi's early Nabucco. A disc devoted to Verdi fulfils a lifelong dream for Hvorostovsky. As a teenager he dreamed of singing Rigoletto though it wasn't until two decades later when he finally undertook the role on stage. Along the way his professional assumption of Verdi roles has been judicious and consistent with the development of his prodigious vocal gifts. ---browse.delosmusic.com download: uploaded anonfiles yandex 4shared solidfiles mediafire mega filecloudio

back