

The Lark In The Morning. Folk Songs And Dances From The Irish Countryside (1956)

Wpisany przez bluelover

Wtorek, 19 Kwiecień 2016 13:56 -

The Lark In The Morning. Folk Songs And Dances From The Irish Countryside (1956)

01. Paddy Tunney – The Lark In The Morning 02. Tommy Makem – The Cobbler 03. Patrick O’Keefe – Jig 04. Paddy Tunney – Rockin The Cradle 05. Peg Power – Sean Dun Na Ngall 06. Liam Clancy – Whisky You’re The Devil 07. Joan Clancy – Dowdling 08. Dennis Murphy – Hornpipe 09. Paddy Tunney – Roisin Dubh 10. Sean MacDonnchadha – The Whistling Thief 11. Mrs. Sarah Makem – In The Month Of January 12. Tommy Makem – The Little Beggarmán 13. Peg Power – Drumin’ Don Dilis 14. Liam Clancy – The Wran Song 15. Paddy Tunney – The Lowlands Of Holland 16. Peter Bates – Reel 17. Sean MacDonnchadha – An Bhruinnlin Bheasach 18. Paddy Tunney – Maggy Pickens 19. Sean MacDonnchadha – My Bonny Boy 20. Dennis Murphy – Hornpipe 21. Liam Clancy – Amhran Dochais 22. Thomas Baynes – Barbara Ellen

This collection is meant as a glimpse into the rich tradition of Irish folk music.

The songs were collected in many different places throughout Ireland from August to December 1955. Many of the songs were recorded at the home of the Makem family in Keady, Co. Armagh. There we gathered for many an evening, often starting with just a few singers, mostly family, and ending around 2:00 A.M., the house packed to overflowing with neighbors and friends from all over the surrounding countryside. Near Beleek, Co. Fermanagh, Paddy Tunney and his family sang, danced, and told tales of Irish heroes. In Macroom, Co. Cork, I recorded in a hotel and later in the rear room of a pub. In Carrick-on-Suir, Co. Tipperary, hours were spent by the winter fire exchanging good talk and songs with the Clancys.

And all the time there was the tramping over fields and hills, along rough country roads in the long summer twilight, or wandering through meadows over stone walls to the hillside. I've watched the autumn come upon the Commeragh mountains in County Waterford and at Christmas-time the final winter light fill the sky along the coast.

The Lark In The Morning. Folk Songs And Dances From The Irish Countryside (1956)

Wpisany przez bluelover

Wtorek, 19 Kwiecień 2016 13:56 -

Out of this atmosphere of freshness and beauty, the happy mornings, the winter evenings, the loves and tragedies of the people has come a great wealth of songs and music, from which we can give you just a few notes in this album, "The Lark in the Morning" ---Diane Hamilton, clancybrothersandtommymakem.com download (mp3 @192 kbs):

yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru uplea

back